

CORE/STRUCTURED Learning Activities Allocation Chart

The following categories of education activities are eligible for CORE/STRUCTURED Learning hours under the ALBNL’s Continuing Education Program provided that the content of the activities falls within one of the CORE topic areas.

CORE/STRUCTURED Categories	Description	Maximum Hours per 2-Year Cycle
Course/workshops	An organized and structured session dealing with a specific matter or topic related to business or architecture. May include: Workshop, Lecture, Seminar, Session, College or University Course – including distance learning, “risk management sessions.”	15
Practical Research	Research that is conducted by the individual for the purpose of expanding the individual’s own knowledge of a specific matter related to business or architecture and which is expected to support or advance the practice of architecture by that individual.	10
Presentations and Teaching	Preparation and formal delivery of information, instruction and/ or training which represents a learning opportunity for the audience and is related to business or architecture.	10
Professional Writing	A body of writing that has been prepared by the individual which is connected to the practice of architecture and which is shared with others through publication for the purpose of educating or informing others.	10
Distance Education Modules	This includes courses accessed via the internet, workbook studies, etc. All Core Distance modules must include an interactive component as defined in the national quality assurance document.	15
Scholarly Research	Research that is conducted by the individual for the purpose of advancing information and knowledge generally of a specific matter related to business or architecture and which will be used to educate or inform others, for example, through publication.	15
Conferences Trade Shows	An organized and structured event attended by an individual dealing with a specific topic related to architecture.	15